Sparkling Educational Future Seen for City

Bright future for city as centre of higher learning was predicted yesterday by Premier W. A. C. Bennett. In scarlet robes of doctor of law from UBC, the premier,

No Place for Devil In New Catechism

LONDON (Reuters)—Senior Anglican clerics Wednesday reviewed the role of the devil in terms of the 20th century and concluded that the arch tempter has no place in the new Anglican catechism. Their decision, made at the Convocation of Canterbury here, comes up for discussion again in May. It means that Anglican children throughout the world will no longer be required to repeat the catechism's phrase: "I renounce the devil and all his works."

BRUSSELS (UPI)—Belgium's Socialist strike wave appears all but over after 25 days of riots and sabotage that cost four lives and millions of dollars in damage and sabotage.

E. B. Paul Building Opened by Premier

By IAN STREET

Premier Bennett yesterday pledged a second $2,500,000 matching grant for further development of Victoria University over a five-year period starting in 1966.

The offer was made by the government on condition that the university development board raised a similar amount, the premier told a crowd of several hundred attending the official opening of the $329,000 E. B. Paul classroom and faculty building on the Lansdowne campus.

URGENT PLEA

Earlier, Acting Principal R. T. Wallace made an urgent plea for an extended "crash program" to meet the expected enrollment increase of more than 50 per cent over the next two years.

"We are very much concerned," said Prof. Wallace. "In the past two years there has been a 63 per cent increase in our enrolment... and we can expect it (enrolment) to be up proportionately in the next two years."

PUT THEM ALL

"I wonder where we are going to put them all," the acting principal said. Prof. Wallace said it is "impressive" that the proposed student union building and a new cafeteria be completed by the start of the fall term in September.

He urged the government also to "give thought" to the provision of student residences on the campus and addition of two further floors to the just-completed E. B. Paul building. Judge J. B. Clearhue, chairman of Victoria University Council, said the government's earlier offer of a $2,500,000 matching grant over five years, made Jan. 8, 1960, was a "real challenge to the citizens of Greater Victoria, to which they responded magnificently."

The university development board has announced the campaign total now stands at "more than" $2,000,000, said Judge Clearhue, and there is promise that it will ultimately reach the $2,500,000 goal.

LOOK AHEAD

Premier Bennett opened his brief speech with the observation that campaign officials should start now to "look ahead to the next five years." The premier added: "I hope the campaign committee will see fit to extend the program to 10 years. The government has agreed to match the same amount ($2,500,000) for the second five-year period, as it has done for the first five years."

The government of B.C. wants Victoria to be a great centre of higher education in this province of ours."

Mr. Bennett said he was

JOHN D ATTACKS LIBERAL GLOATING

'Selling Canada Short'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker last night accused the Liberals of exaggerating and gloating over Canada's present recession "in the hope of political advantage."

In what was believed the first mention by Diefenbaker of a recession in this country, he said the opposition was damaging Canada's present and future welfare by criticizing "without offering any effective solution."

POLITICAL ADVANTAGE

The prime minister said the situation would not be improved by pessimism.

"Selling Canada short will not do it," he said. "Destroying the confidence of Canadians in themselves will not do it and gloating over the recession in the hope of political advantage will not do it."

SHARP CONTRAST

The reference to "the recession" was in sharp contrast to Finance Minister Donald Fleming's recent denials that "there is no economic emergency at this time," and similar speeches by other cabinet ministers recently.

Inauguration Fever

Flags Deck Jammed U.S. Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President-elect John Kennedy, equipped with two top hats and a cutaway coat, started a whirlwind of inaugural events yesterday that will sweep him into the White House Friday.

Returning from a one-day stay in New York where he conferred on Latin American and other problems, Kennedy was greeted by a capital with scrubbed streets and buildings decked with U.S. flags, bunting and pictures of the new chief executive.

FEVER PITCH

The official inauguration program was getting under way and the city was worked up to a fever pitch. Kennedy was an invited guest at a special party last night for Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

Today, Kennedy will meet with President Eisenhower for their second talk since the election. This is expected to be strictly business and there has been speculation it will concern foreign policy.

FINAL FITTING

Kennedy had a final fitting in New York for the cutaway coat he will wear for the big event Friday and bought two black silk top hats, one as a reserve for any emergency.

In Washington, hotel rooms, inaugural ball tickets, mink coats to rent all were being sought eagerly, almost desperately, as inauguration day drew near.

Democrats by the thousands descended on the nation's capital. From state capitals, county seats, and cities, they came—millionaires, businessmen, laborers.

BEST SINCE JACKSON

It looked as if it would be the biggest, liveliest and most unforgettable in a generation since Andrew Jackson and his frontiersmen ushered in the age of the common man back in 1828.

The ball committee, which only a few days ago denied there would be four inaugural balls, added a fifth and even then feared there would be more people than space.

Police and the Secret Service assembled a security force of more than 5,000 men. All were briefed and given assignments which ranged from manning aircraft to patrol the parade route from overhead to checking manhole covers.

Horses were trained with Spike Jones records in Rock Creek Park so they would be used to the music, cheers and high-jinks of the crowd.

Space Shot Rumors Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The presence of a fourth Russian range ship in the north Pacific was reported by the U.S. Navy Tuesday, increasing speculation that the Russians are about to undertake a major space test.

A navy patrol aircraft spotted the ship, the Suchan, 1,000 miles south of the Aleutian island of Attu. It was moving on a southeast course.

The appearance of the Suchan led the navy to guess that the Russian ship, probably will take place this week, possibly about the time President-elect Kennedy is due for inauguration Friday.

All four of the range ships are carrying helicopters that could be used to recover a space capsule.

Cost of Columbia 'Known All Along'

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia has known for some time about the estimated cost of Columbia River power that Premier Bennett now questions, Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday night.

He was commenting on the premier's earlier statement in Victoria that B.C. will proceed immediately with arrangements for building a three-dam storage system the "moment the federal government guarantees this cost figure in writing."

COST FIGURE

This cost figure is 3.77 mills per kilowatt hour—advanced repeatedly by federal cabinet ministers as the cost at Vancouver of American-generated power returned to B.C. under terms of the treaty signed in Washington Tuesday.

Mr. Bennett said he seriously doubts that 3.77 mills is an accurate figure.

If the guarantee is not given work on the Columbia will be held up until the B.C. Energy Board submits a report on the costs later this year, Mr. Bennett said.

The premier also released the text of a letter he wrote Finance Minister Donald Fleming Jan. 13 stating that it would be in the best interests of both federal and provincial finance departments to discuss financing arrangements as soon as possible.

Mr. Fulton said last night:

"These figures have been known to the negotiators for some time, including Mr. Bassett (deputy minister E. W. Bassett of B.C.'s lands and forests department)."

BEST ESTIMATES

"These are the best estimates available of the cost of power laid down at Vancouver." (See Peter Bruton's column on Page 17.)

Growing Rail Stoppage Choking Off New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—A growing strike has halted operations on New York City's three big rail carriers, forcing hundreds of thousands of commuters to look for emergency transportation.

The Pennsylvania Railroad and the New Haven Railroad, following the lead of the New York Central, Wednesday ordered all service in and out of New York suspended after trainmen refused to cross picket lines of river tug and ferryboat crews.

New Haven spokesmen said the line's entire New England system was in jeopardy by "flying pickets" of the striking maritime workers.

Speed Trap on Shelbourne To Await Unwary Drivers

Motorists driving along Shelbourne Street in Saanich Tuesday will be timed by Saanich police force's new radio timing device. Police Chief W. A. Pearson said last night.

But the only indication they will see will be a large sign, about 500 yards past the "ghost" car, telling them they have just been timed.

And, perhaps, a summons to appear in court.

"So far as I'm concerned, I don't care if the timer doesn't catch anyone," Chief Pearson said last night. "It will do its job if it makes people drive carefully."

The timer will be used on Shelbourne Street Tuesday only part of the day. It will be used on other roads, also.

In unofficial tests over the past two weeks, almost 150 speeders have been "caught" by the machine. No charges have been laid.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

"WELL, I can always go and dig ditches," men used to say when they felt stale and frustrated in their jobs.

They can't say it now. There are machines for digging ditches.

Honest manual work is getting more and more difficult to find. I hadn't realized how far technology had advanced, until I heard a National Employment Service official talking.

"How many pick-and-shovel men do you see nowadays?" he asked. "They are getting rarer all the time. In place of picks you have jackhammers, which take a certain amount of skill to operate."

"And even jackhammers are due for replacement. In the mines they have several drills set in a frame at the coal face or rock face. This does away with the individual miner and his hand drill."

Last week there were 5,850 people—4,206 of them men—registered at the Victoria National Employment Service office as looking for work.

At the same time, employers were offering 117 jobs. Of this number, only four were for unskilled workers.

Twenty-five were professional and semi-professional; 21 clerical and kindred occupations; 13 sales and kindred occupations; 32 were for service occupations, such as cooks and waiters.

Employers are demanding higher and higher standards of education for quite ordinary jobs.

Soon, perhaps, elevator operators will lack master of arts or engineering degrees to the wall, alongside their operating certificates.

It hasn't come to that yet. But some employers are already expecting far higher standards than they actually need. If they can get a doctor of philosophy to sort the office mail, why not hire him, and gain the benefit of his brains? That's the way they think. They may be fooling themselves. A man can be too smart for a job, or too absent-minded, or too clumsy with his hands.

At any rate, employers now are sold on the value of education—to such an extent that the National Employment Service advises students to stay in school as long as they can.

Officers of the NES sometimes visit schools and advise the young to pack all possible knowledge into their heads. A booklet, "Are You Thinking of Leaving School?" issues the same advice in print.

And white-collar men no longer can readily dream of a noble, muscle-building and unskilled job like digging ditches. Instead, they have to think of serving an apprenticeship on a ditch-digging machine.

It May Take Hard Bumps To Make Alcoholic Think

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In your column you said that alcoholics have to find out for themselves that alcohol has taken charge of their lives."

"Well, my father has been an alcoholic for about 20 years now, and hasn't found it out yet. Do you think there is any chance that he will realize that he is ruining his own life, my mother's, my sister's and mine?"

"He not only is an alcoholic but is very cruel to all of us, and constantly fights with my mother. She has gone to see a clergyman and he thinks a divorce is the only answer, for fear my father will harm some of us."

"I tried to get her to see a marriage counselor, but she doesn't think it would do much good. I also think my father should see a psychiatrist but I don't know how to convince my mother of it."

"Since he doesn't realize he is an alcoholic, or doesn't want to realize it, is there any hope for him or for the rest of us? Please don't use my name or real initials. O.O."

All right, I've changed your initials. I quite often do so, in cases where a reader might be embarrassed if others even suspected the true identity.

EXPLESS

I agree with your mother that going to a marriage counselor probably would be quite useless in a case such as this. And I think a psychiatrist would be just as helpless, because an alcoholic won't listen to reason until he realizes (if he ever does) that the one thing he must do is give up alcohol.

On the optimistic side, the one ray of hope is the knowledge that some alcoholics, after years and years, have gotten their lives in such a mess that they had no choice but to admit that things were hopeless unless they gave up alcohol—nothing else would do any good.

SAFETY FIRST

You for a way, your mother) have the clergyman's advice. Whether divorce is the right step, or a separation, or whatever, I do not propose to decide. But obviously your mother and you and your sister are entitled to be safe from the risk of bodily harm. And it could be that the shock of losing his family, or being kicked out of the family, may be the drastic sort of thing that is required to make your father realize how much alcohol is costing him, and costing others.

LOGICAL

It is unfortunate, but quite logical, that an alcoholic isn't going to "find out for himself" how bad the situation is, until he feels the consequences of his drinking. He has ruled the roost so far.

You can't shelter an alcoholic from life. You can't pamper him. You can't reason with him while he is still more or less happily getting along. It takes some bumps to make him know the truth.

Apparently the only way a real alcoholic ever learns is to experience the hard bumps. Understand him? Yes. Continue to love him despite his weakness? Yes. But let him take the bumps that his drinking causes, and then there is some hope that he will, eventually, begin to recognize the truth.

Europe Seeks Audience

New President Question Mark

PARIS (UPI)—Leaders of Western Europe's Big Three would welcome meetings with President-elect Kennedy soon after he takes office.

Diplomatic sources indicated that one of the main topics at any meeting would be the Kennedy administration's attitude toward a summit conference with the Soviet Union.

Other issues which might be discussed with Kennedy by Western leaders are the Congo crisis, Laos and the future of Berlin.

VISIT WASHINGTON

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, who does look with favor on a summit meeting with Russia, is scheduled to go to Washington next month. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is said to have exhibited a willingness to pay a return visit to the United States in the near future.

Even the most aloof of the top European leaders, President Charles de Gaulle of France, has indicated that he would be glad to meet with Kennedy some place in Europe. De Gaulle has made no move to visit Washington, however, and French diplomats report that no such trip is planned.

QUESTION MARK

Kennedy is a major question mark to most Europeans.

France is known to want a sweeping revision in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to promote closer co-ordination with its allies in critical areas outside Europe.

Need More Urgent For Emergency Plan

The need for an emergency phone system in Greater Victoria is growing more urgent with passing time, Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt said last night.

He was commenting on a report from Winnipeg which said the 999 dialing system installed there July 1, 1959, handles an average of 180 calls daily. Hook-up of all incoming calls to a tape recorder has been credited with saving eight lives in the past nine months.

WAITING ANXIOUSLY

Reeve Wurtele, appointed by the intermunicipal committee to study an emergency system for Greater Victoria, said he is waiting anxiously for the report promised by B.C. Telephone Company.

"I am much obliged to Central Saanich officials who made the report available on the Winnipeg operation," the reeve said.

"It was really Central Saanich who started this whole thing here by pointing up the need. Esquimalt police commission had the same idea at the same time, but we did nothing about it then. Central

More Cubans Executed

HAVANA (AP)—Three members of the Cuban Electrical Union were executed Wednesday on charges of sabotage. The deaths raised to 584 the unofficial total number of executions since Premier Fidel Castro gained power two years ago.

VANCOUVER (CP)—James Rowan, an eminent United States penologist and social worker, said here seeds of juvenile delinquency and adult crime are sown in neglect of child welfare services.

The western director of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency said child welfare is one of the most important areas in North America's battle against its growing crime rate.

RESULT OF NEGLECT

"Juvenile delinquency is the direct result of neglect of child welfare services," said Mr. Rowan.

"No society can afford to neglect the neglected child," said Mr. Rowan who came here to address a group that hopes to form an organization similar to the 40,000-member U.S. operation.

HAVEN'T KEPT PACE

"We know how to deal with crime and delinquency, but the tragedy is that methods have not kept pace with knowledge. Our laws give little recognition to crime's causes; they are blind to early symptoms of delinquent tendencies and to the social ills that breed them," he said.

"Realizing this, the importance of an efficient child welfare program cannot be overstated, for in it lie the means of early detection of incipient delinquency."

Bigger Military Machine On More Efficient Basis

"This is the last of a series of articles on the plans and problems of the Kennedy administration."

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John Kennedy has said he wants to speed up the missile program, expand forces for fighting conventional war, improve air defence and do more about protection against rocket-firing submarines.

If the incoming administration makes these and other changes in the United States military program it will cost money — perhaps more than the $42,000,000,000 or $43,000,000,000 defence program expected to be submitted by the outgoing Eisenhower administration.

But Kennedy has also expressed belief that billions can be saved by administrative improvements and curtailing service competition.

Beyond these programs which can be controlled by

Kennedy Seeks Speed-Up

Kennedy and his defence secretary designate, Robert S. McNamara, are other potential factors which cannot be decided by national policy making alone.

NEW PROBLEMS

Shifts in the international situation can influence profoundly Kennedy's national defence policies. He comes into office as new tensions mount in southeast Asia, as relations with Cuba worsen, as the future trend of NATO defensive strength is considered, as pressures increase for resumption of nuclear weapons tests.

ARCHBISHOP BAGGIO

Take a Look, Undertakers Told

Pagan Rites Alarm Cleric

OTTAWA (CP)—The Roman Catholic apostolic delegate to Canada has asked undertakers to make an "agonizing reappraisal" of their profession, "not only of price structure but also of pagan customs and trappings that have crept into the industry."

The comments by Most Rev. Sebastian Baggio are contained in a letter to James O'Hagan, Jr., executive secretary-treasurer of the Funeral Directors' Association of Canada. The letter was released here today by the Canadian Catholic Conference.

Archbishop Baggio was replying to a letter from Mr. O'Hagan asking his views on an editorial which appeared in the Dec. 10 issue of the weekly Canadian Register, a Roman Catholic newspaper published at Kingston, Ont.

The editorial said the "high cost of dying" has become a growing national problem. Mr. O'Hagan, himself a Roman Catholic, wrote to the archbishop that the editorial "seems to us to be contradictory to the policy of the Catholic church as we understand it."

Archbishop Baggio's reply said he supports the editorial.

Victorians Looted Scrapped Railway

Three Victoria men, convicted Jan. 4 of stealing railroad track from an old logging railway beyond Leechtown, were sentenced in Sooke police court yesterday.

Frank Melvin Newton, 1140 Balmoral; Roderick A. Blanchard, also 1140 Balmoral, and Anthony French, 1118 Bay, had been charged with theft over the value of $50.

Newton was sentenced by Magistrate A. I. Thomas to three months at Oakalla, Blanchard was given suspended sentence under $500 bond for one year and French was similarly suspended under bond of $500 for six months.

Court was told that on Dec. 11 the three hired a heavy truck and driver, and went out beyond Leechtown to an old logging railway now abandoned and being scrapped by its owners. They hauled out a number of track lengths and were on their way back to Victoria to sell them when stopped.

Charged in city court with impaired driving, a Sidney man and his wife changed earlier pleas of not guilty to pleas of guilty yesterday.

Henry and Edna Sekkemo were fined $250 each by Magistrate William Ostler. The husband was remanded to Jan. 26 for a probation report on his driver's licence when he said that, as a commercial fisherman, he needed his car to get to and from his boat. His wife's licence was suspended.

Police said Henry Sekkemo's car struck the rear of a second car about 1.05 a.m. Jan. 11 on Government at Johnson. He was arrested at the scene. His description of the other vehicle led police to apprehend its driver—the wife.

Robert R. Stoffer, 19, of 1677 Christmas, who had been away from town for most of a year, pleaded guilty yesterday to two charges of being a minor in possession of liquor — on Feb. 26, 1960, and again Jan. 6, 1961.

The first time police found a quantity of beer and a small bottle of whisky in his car; the second time two bottles of beer.

He was fined $20 on the first offence; $30 on the second.

Continuing Friends

A LEADING American newspaper has concluded that Canada's recent, and continuing, soul-searching is indicative of the emergence of a new spirit of pro-Canadianism rather than a manifestation of any anti-Americanism in this country.

The interpretation is a fair one—far removed from the many irresponsible and uninformed analyses appearing all too frequently in lesser journals both south and north of our common border.

It is worthy of note that a number of Canadian governmental pronouncements and activities over the past few months although not conforming to American policy have brought little or no official criticism from the present United States administration.

True, one or two senators and a few members of the House of Representatives have thoroughly condemned Canada for its trade policy with Cuba—but junior politicians in any country are apt to sound off for little reason and their statements cannot be taken as a reflection of the attitude of either the United States government or the majority of elected representatives.

It is therefore to be hoped that their words will be completely disregarded by the governments and people of both countries—just as certain foolish remarks on the subject made by a number of our own Canadian members of parliament deserve to be.

Since the conflict of 1812 Canada and the United States have lived peaceably side by side. Despite the occasional border dispute during the last half of the 19th century, a strong and understanding friendship has developed between our two nations.

It would be true to say that the mutual trust existing between Canada and the United States has never been stronger than it is today. A new spirit of co-operation has come about with the knowledge that neither country can survive without the other.

Nor does this spirit rest alone with the higher echelons. Rather it is strengthened and confirmed by the millions of Canadians and Americans who each year visit each other's country.

It is a happy thought that there is likely to be no change in this attitude when the United States administration changes hands tomorrow. President-elect Kennedy has already let it be known that he has no desire for Canada to depart from its independent stand in spite of its conflicting from time to time with American policy.

Here are the words he used in his 1957 convocation address before the University of New Brunswick: "I do not mean to imply that the relations between our two countries are so close as to encourage domination or subservience. This has not been a case where, in terms of the old saying 'familiarity breeds contempt.' On the contrary, a co-operative friendship of such meaning and solidarity permits a full and frank discussion of issues of mutual interest, even when that discussion may jar sensitive ears on the other side of the border."

"Your prime minister, I believe, has done well to remind both countries of the issues and potential areas of conflict that our two countries must not neglect. A friendship such as ours, moreover, encourages healthy competition in international trade. It requires that neither takes the other for granted in international politics."

If President-elect Kennedy still holds to those views—and there is no reason to doubt that he does—it augurs well for the continuation of the present amicable relations between our two peoples.

A Tattoo, Yes, But Indoors

IT is a bright idea of the celebrations committee to envisage a military tattoo as part of the civic centennial program next year. This is the kind of event that usually proves most attractive; often it is the most popular of festival arrangements anywhere.

It would also be specially in keeping with this area, which for a century has been a naval and military centre. The units stationed here could put on a magnificent show, and it should not be difficult to enlist the appearance of other Canadian formations.

Not so bright is the idea that such a tattoo should be held in the Colwood fair grounds under searchlights, at a staging cost which necessitates a crowd of 20,000 at each performance to make it pay. That foredooms the project to financial failure. A crowd of this size is seldom seen in Victoria.

For any single event, let alone the succession of performances associated with a tattoo. And for all our enviable climate summer evenings outdoors are apt to be too chilly for bleacher watching.

Better it would be if the tattoo were staged in the Memorial Arena. It is large enough to contain a colorful and varied program, and spectators would sit in comfort and more readily enjoy the performance. This would obviate the need for capital costs and thus help to ensure financial success. It would also bring needed revenue to the arena, another civic promotion.

The committee would do well to think twice before embarking on too ambitious an undertaking; unless it intends that the city should subsidize the tattoo. That seems inevitable if it is held outdoors at considerable expense.

Bless Our Forests

SO long as the sun shines and the rains fall, trees will continue to grow fast on Vancouver Island; and as long as proper conservation policies are followed the source of raw material for a huge forest industry should be available perpetually.

For this reason, the hewing of wood, the sawing of logs into lumber and plywood, and the manufacturing by chemical process of by-products like pulp and paper, must remain the backbone of the Island's economy. There is no substitute in sight.

Hence the decision of B.C. Forest Products to extend its operations at Crofton by placing a $25,000,000 newsprint mill alongside its $50,000,000 bleached sulphate pulp mill is excellent news. The new mill can be fed from already available forest sources using wood that not so many years ago would have been burnt as hog fuel.

As such it will be a long term source of wealth for its owners, the people of the district who will build it and then work in it, and the provincial and federal governments.

The manufacture of newsprint is actually by far the youngest segment of the forest industry on Vancouver Island, but it is fast becoming one of the most important.

The first newsprint rolled out of the Elk Falls mill near Campbell River in 1952; and six years later production started at the MacMillan mill at Port Alberni. These two mills have a capacity of 335,000 tons of newsprint annually, an output that at present prices is worth about $45,000,000.

When the B.C. Forest Products mill at Crofton is completed, early in 1964, the Island will be capable of turning out about 500,000 tons of newsprint a year worth over $65,000,000.

What does 500,000 tons of newsprint look like?

It represents 37,500,000,000 single pages of the average-sized newspaper 15 inches wide. Or that same 15-inch strip would enable Vancouver Island's forthcoming annual newsprint production to stretch round the world 875 times at the Equator.

Yet newsprint is only one of the tremendous things that are being done with the wood that grows practically wild on our favored Island.

More Hope in Algeria

By ALAN HARVEY, Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE latest word from the Algerian rebels marks another hopeful step toward a peaceful settlement of the six-year rebellion.

In careful and controlled language, the rebel leaders have proclaimed themselves ready to open negotiations with France on the "conditions of a free consultation of the Algerian people."

The Modem demonstrations last December and the results of the Jan. 8 referendum, showing the overwhelming desire for peace among metropolitan Frenchmen, have torn away the screen of partisan statements that masked the true state of affairs in Algeria.

Right-wing advocates of Algerian France have been exposed as forming only a minute portion of the population.

In Algeria, the European settlers have been dealt a shattering blow. Many of them, feeling themselves compromised by their past actions, are packing their bags.

Others, more deeply committed to their native soil or more optimistic about the treatment they may expect in a Modem-controlled Algeria, will probably think hard before leaving the country.

They may be luckier than most people think. A good many of the rebel leaders are as firmly attached to the ideals of French civilization as the settlers themselves. They know that they need French economic aid, and men like Ferhat Abbas certainly want to preserve as much as possible of French culture in the best sense.

The high dive.

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

I HAVE been among the wild animals of Africa these past few days, via the pen of Alan Moorehead as beautifully used in his "No Room in the Ark." The title escapes me for I have not finished the book. It is too tasty to be hastily consumed. I am savoring it in small doses.

So far, apart from the pygmies, whom Moorehead found to be physically repulsive and of a small unlike that of no other living creature, his recital centres mainly on the wide variety of animals his safari encountered. Obviously he is fascinated by them and he communicates his fascination.

It is a change in any case from the quarrels of humankind, for there is calm in the game parks and wild lands where the animals roam. The elephants may tear up a whole forest just for fun, but the carnivores hunt only to eat. And they don't hunt all the time. The lion may sit within feet of a quietly grazing antelope with an air of "terrible indifference."

Animals in their natural surroundings are fatalistic, accepting life and death as a matter of course. Presumably they don't think about such things. And for them a miss is as good as a mile.

Moorehead mentions that in their own habitat these wild creatures seem brighter in color, and have a vitality and challenge in their movements that make the traveller feel small, as small perhaps as the pygmies he met.

The lion, for example, which walks in the dusk with certainty and authority, knowing that no other beast would normally dare to attack him. There are no tigers in Africa to dispute his lordly air. Yet lions, one learns, are feeble when young. They suffer from rickets, and two out of every three cubs may not survive.

You may rub noses with a lion in the Seattle zoo, through a glass pane, although somehow it seems safer to stand three feet away. In Africa you may look as closely at a lion through the car window. Young lions will walk quietly alongside, but Moorehead points out that if you open the door and step outside the chances are you will instantly die.

Strangely, to our uninformed ideas, he thinks the wild dogs the most dangerous of animals. His guide could walk up close to them and drive them off with stones, for this method of defence was new to them, but even the lion will turn aside and the plain empty itself of animals when a pack appears on the scene.

The creatures he talks about are of absorbing interest. The wildebeest, which move in cavalry columns, sending out flank sentinels in rotation as though master-minded by a sergeant-major. The leopard, most beautiful of all in form and grace, which can leap from above and scalp you with half the speed of light. The leather-eating hyenas, which snatch Moorehead's boots from beneath his bed and ate them, rubber heels and all. The elephants, which are hard to train and make him wonder how Hannibal took them over the Alps. They are non-aggressive when left alone, have a life span of 60 to 70 years, and can tread with delicate, silent footsteps.

Or by contrast the more helpless creatures of the wild, such as the zebra, the impala and other antelopes. They graze together for protection, one excelling in hearing, another in smell and another in sight. Or the ostrich, like an enlarged chicken with indecent bare legs, and a host of other animals which fill this interesting volume.

At the moment I am with Moorehead in the Mau Mau country, where nearby Mount Kenya sits plump on the equator. It is this mixture of high lands and extreme heat which compels him to the notion that people there go a little mad at times. The animals he describes, however, seem very sane; they do only as nature intended them to do.

Reports from Ottawa

NOW that both Conservatives and Liberals have unveiled rival plans to make the economy more Canadian, parliamentary debate of the Baby Budget promises to be sharper. Prime Minister Diefenbaker and his ministers had widely publicized the Conservatives' policy of "Canadianization" of foreign-controlled industry for more than three years before they decided to begin implementing it by act of Parliament.

The Baby Budget is largely a series of proposals to discourage U.S. capital inflow and encourage Canadian capital to invest in industries where U.S. capital has been active. This is to be achieved by withdrawal of long-established tax incentives for U.S. capital to come to Canada, and establishment of new tax incentives for Canadian capital to seek investment opportunities within Canada.

The Liberal plan, as outlined in a resolution passed by the Grits rally last week, would not directly discourage the inflow of U.S. capital, but would encourage the investment of Canadian capital in Canadian industry now owned or controlled by U.S. capital. This would be achieved by tax incentives, laws to direct the investment of pension, trust, insurance and other institutional funds in such ways as to lessen the demand for U.S. capital, and propaganda to encourage individual Canadians to invest their savings.

The Grits evolved this policy knowing that they don't have to advocate withdrawal of tax concessions to U.S. capital because the Baby Budget already has done this. If the Tories hadn't already acted in this field, would the Liberals? We don't know.

However there is room to assume they wouldn't, because they say they are against "disturbing unnecessarily the present enjoyment by Canadians of the benefits of foreign capital investment."

If so, their Canadianization policy is more moderate than the government's policy, and would be less of a strain on U.S. friendship and understanding than is proving the case with the budget proposals.

Specifically, it would not be likely to provoke comments like that made on the Baby Budget by Joseph R. Stevin, national business editor of the New York Herald Tribune:

"The Dominion can't solve its problems by keeping foreign capital and foreign goods out of the country and forcing them to stay here. It is a reasonable negotiating position. That was difficult in the Eisenhower administration. Several times with quiet and courageous determination Secretary of State Christian A. Herter stood off the Pentagon, the Atomic Energy Commission and others determined to make any further negotiation impossible."

Some among those who will have a voice in shaping foreign policy in the Kennedy administration feel a test ban agreement is not important. But anyone who has been at the UN, as Wadsworth has, knows that every nation, and particularly the underdeveloped powers, is counting on an agreement.

During the campaign President-elect Kennedy said he would "direct vigorous negotiation in accordance with my personal instructions on policy." In the same statement he left no doubt of the "extreme importance" he puts on an agreement with proper safeguards.

On Laos the urgency is equally great. Premier Phoumthavong has said that he is willing to hold a conference of the powers involved in the crisis that has threatened to enlarge into a general war. This is a decision that the Eisenhower administration could not take so late in the day.

The complexity of the Laos situation is almost as great as that on nuclear testing. In an article in the current Life magazine Far Eastern correspondent Stanley Karnow says of the "mess in Laos" that the United States has made just about every mistake that could be made, including the squandering of $300,000,000 in aid money.

Cuba is on the brink of war, revolution or breakdown and perhaps a grim combination of all three. So the roll call goes. In each instance the tangled threads lead far back into the past. They cannot be picked up casually or quickly by those who now take responsibility.

An assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, to replace J. Graham Parsons, who has been so directly involved in Laos, is still at this writing to be named. He will have his work cut out for him, and that goes all up and down the line for new men moving into old and cluttered offices.

The Packack

Keeping Things in Order

By GREGORY CLARK

MY neighbor, Mr. Foonch—a Scotsman, naturally, with a name like that—had a distressing experience the other morning whilst cleaning his rather complicated teeth. The dentifrice, he discovered, had a very curious taste. Mr. Foonch, being elderly and slightly addicted to the grape, as the saying is, with the full concurrence of his medical adviser, a Dr. Angus MacSwivel, who believes a moderate application of alcohol to the veins and arteries restores something of the elasticity that may have been lost through advancing age. . . . Mr. Foonch, as I was saying, not infrequently notices a curious flavor to almost everything first thing in the morning. He is used to it.

But this dentifrice, he decided, had reached the end of its popularity with him. He would have to try a new one. After he had finished his teeth, he picked up the tube to read its name so as to be sure not to buy it again. It was then he discovered that he had inadvertently squeezed a tube of household cement onto his brush, his daughter having left the tube in the bathroom the night before after repairing one of her earrings, that had become unstuck.

Mr. Foonch was relating these details to me only this morning as we boarded the bus, and my sympathetic attention was so distracted that I threw away my bus ticket and put my cigarette butt in the ticket receptacle. After a certain age, it becomes difficult to keep things in order.

Mr. Hammarkjold's Aloofness

Disappointment in South Africa

By STANLEY UYS, from Cape Town

MR. Dag Hammarkjold behaved with such formal correctness on his South African tour that he omitted even to explain publicly the purpose of his mission. If he had explained it he might have cleared up much misunderstanding, particularly among the 12,000,000 non-whites who feel a little bewildered and hurt by his professional aloofness.

He should have explained that his visit did not require him to assemble facts on race discrimination and that, as a guest of the South African government, he was not responsible for his itinerary and appointments.

His task, in the terms of the Security Council resolution adopted shortly after the Sharpeville shooting last March, was to consult with the South African government on arrangements for upholding the principles of the UN Charter.

Strictly speaking, Mr. Hammarkjold would have been entitled to confine his mission to discussions with Prime Minister Verwoerd and to report back to the Security Council on whether Dr. Verwoerd was prepared to be accommodating or not. Apart from "padding" on his itinerary, this, in fact, is almost what Mr. Hammarkjold did.

He had adequate talks with Dr. Verwoerd—who incidentally had declared in advance that his government would be "as unyielding as walls of granite"—and in due course he will submit his report to the Security Council. It will then be up to the United Nations to decide what to do

Foreign Affairs

High Wire Acrobatics

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—The act that is about to take place here can be compared to an incredibly difficult balancing act on a high wire. Not only most Americans but a great many people all over the world are watching to see whether it will come off successfully.

Cuba, Laos, the Congo, the nuclear test negotiations are piled high on the one balancer's head. This precarious burden must be shifted to the other man without the loss of any of the breakables. That is what it means to change administrations in an era of revolutionary turmoil and nuclear armaments.

How complex the process is perhaps even the new principals engaged in the act have not yet begun to appreciate. This is illustrated most clearly at the only point at which negotiations with the Soviets have been going on the proposed nuclear test ban talks at Geneva.

When two and a half months ago it was agreed to suspend those talks, pending the installation of a new man in the White House, the date of February 7 was set to resume. This early deadline was fixed in the belief that a new president would, shortly after his election on November 8, name a secretary of state who would begin to work closely with the retiring secretary.

In those circumstances it would have been possible to designate a negotiator for the Geneva talks and, far more important, to arrive at an agreed position for restarting the negotiations.

But it has not worked out that way. Dean Rusk, the new secretary, has found it more difficult than had been anticipated to draft men to serve with him in the state department. Not only is a good man hard to find but often good men cannot be persuaded to take the jobs in which they could best serve.

So, as it appears now, the February 7 date cannot be met and the British and the Soviets will have to be asked for an extension of time. Continuing for more than ten years, the talks cover the most complex technical problems directly related to the politics of the cold war. Even though able career officers carried on at Geneva after Ambassador James J. Wadsworth left to replace Henry Cabot Lodge at the United Nations, a new chief negotiator would take a lot of coaching to get up to date.

First and foremost, the new administration must weld conflicting viewpoints together and hammer out a reasonable negotiating position. That was difficult in the Eisenhower administration. Several times with quiet and courageous determination Secretary of State Christian A. Herter stood off the Pentagon, the Atomic Energy Commission and others determined to make any further negotiation impossible.

Some among those who will have a voice in shaping foreign policy in the Kennedy administration feel a test ban agreement is not important. But anyone who has been at the UN, as Wadsworth has, knows that every nation, and particularly the underdeveloped powers, is counting on an agreement.

During the campaign President-elect Kennedy said he would "direct vigorous negotiation in accordance with my personal instructions on policy." In the same statement he left no doubt of the "extreme importance" he puts on an agreement with proper safeguards.

'Magnificent Gesture' Hailed by All Galway

GALWAY, Ireland (UPI)—This city's historic mace and sword, three centuries old, will be given back today after a 16-year absence, and all Galway will be out to cheer.

They were sold in 1935 for $15,000 to the late U.S. publisher William Randolph Hearst. Toward the end of his life, he favored their return. They were given recently to Ireland's Premier Sean Lemass in what the Irish call "a magnificent gesture."

Modern Indian Act Closer in Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Hope for a better Indian Act in tune with modern conditions was expressed Wednesday by Citizenship Minister Fairclough.

It would follow recommendations from a final study by the parliamentary committee on Indian Affairs, she told the Commons.

AFFLICTIONS

In approving the committee's renewal, members spoke strongly about the afflictions of Canada's fast-growing Indian population of 179,000—health, job and liquor problems.

Often the Indian is denied the fundamental rights and privilege guaranteed under the bill of rights, said Liberal Hubert Badgley.

COMPULSORY

Mrs. Fairclough said the Commons will be asked to drop the much-criticized compulsory enfranchisement. Never used, it allows Indians to be stripped of their special status.

Other guests on the flag-draped dais included R. W. Mayhew, honorary chairman of the university fund drive; R. B. Wilson, general campaign chairman; Education Minister Peterson and general contractor George Farmer.

The new building was named after the late Dr. E. B. Paul, first principal of Victoria College from 1903 to 1915 and again from 1920 until his retirement in 1927.

A thorough Commons committee study of CBC financing was urged by Liberal J. W. Pickersgill.

He said the moment any agency has to ask the cabinet for money it becomes a creature of the government rather than Parliament, and there is an "inevitable tendency to lick the boots of ministers to get a little more largesse."

Junior Sports Events Get National Sponsor

MONTREAL — Sponsorship of a Canadian junior sports program featuring six Dominion and seven regional championship events in 1961 has been announced by a national soft drink company.

The $70,000 program will take in provincial and Canadian schoolboy curling championships; Canadian skiing, badminton, swimming, tennis and golf championships; and the western Canada five pin championships. Swimming, bowling and badminton are new additions to the yearly program.

West Coast Soccer Loop Next Month

VANCOUVER (CP) — The proposed new North American Pacific Coast soccer championship, comprising of league champions from Mexico, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Vancouver, will come late in February.

Representatives of the four cities will meet in Fresno, Calif., on Feb. 24 and 25 to finalize details of the championship play-off.

President Bill Findler of British Columbia's Pacific Coast Soccer League said Tuesday that plans were for the play-offs to take place in Los Angeles on the memorial day weekend (May 30).

Findler said the B.C. entry will be the winner of the P.C.S.L. All expenses for the journey will be met with the winner also taking first prize of $1,000. There is a possibility that this may be increased to $2,000.

Join Connie Mack

Teams from Duncan and Lake Cowichan have been included in the new Victoria Connie Mack Baseball League for next season.

B.C. Lions Members Back Team's Stand

VANCOUVER (CP) — The executive of the British Columbia Lions received the full support of 730 members Tuesday night in its fight against the new gate equalization plan adopted by the Western Inter-provincial Football Union.

Past president Harry Spring produced figures that soon had Tuesday's meeting on his side.

Based on 1960 receipts throughout the league, Spring said the plan the Lions presented during Grey Cup week to raise $75,000 needed by Saskatchewan Roughriders would have the Lions contributing nearly $30,000, Winnipeg $12,000, Calgary nearly $11,000, and Edmonton $2,700.

The other four clubs rejected the plan and voted in one for 1961 that would, according to Spring's figures, have the Lions donating $67,900, Winnipeg $28,000, Calgary $6,000, while Edmonton would receive $7,000.

Lions feel they want to help Saskatchewan but they don't want to have to look after the other clubs in the league.

The B.C. executive went on to say that figures produced at the Winnipeg Blue Bombers' annual meeting earlier in the month that Lions had taken out more money from the playoff pool than they had contributed in gate equalization were correct.

He said, however, that none of Winnipeg's executive thought to produce the figures of the other teams in the league.

Spring said that since Lions have entered the WIFU they have contributed $150,000 towards gate equalization and taken out $280,000 from the playoff pool.

He said Winnipeg has paid in $16,000 and taken out $45,000; Edmonton has paid in $3,385 and taken out $57,000; Calgary has paid in $1,024 and taken out $330,000 and Saskatchewan, which has not contributed anything, has taken out $425,000.

Spring pointed out that he felt there was nothing wrong with this except the team which needs the most help—Saskatchewan—has been able to take out less than Edmonton and Winnipeg.

Up-Island All-Stars Replace Army Club

Army was withdrawn from the Commercial Hockey League and been replaced by an all-star club from the Mid-Island Suburban Hockey League.

Announcement was made yesterday by president Doug Fletcher, who reported that the Army club was forced to quit through lack of players.

The Mid-Island replacements will make their first start Monday at 8.30 in Memorial Arena against second-place Pattersons. Navy plays Independent Athletic Association in the 7 p.m. opener.

The Mid-Island club roster is not definite yet, but officials were able to name several players who will be on it.

These include Don White, the league's all-star goalie; Shadow Yesowick, Gordie Moore, Paul Blais, Jack Murphy, Kenny Lipsett, Denny Plensky and Paul Blais. Roster will include almost all of the league's top scorers, and the team will need all of them if they are to improve their position in the league standings.

Taking over the Army franchise they also take over the Army season record, which is one victory in 11 starts. First place Navy has 18 points, followed by Pattersons with 14 and IAA with 10.

Eastern Pro League Wants Minors Series

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — President Ed Houston of the Eastern Professional Hockey League says he is writing the presidents of the American and Western Hockey Leagues seeking a playoff "to determine which league is best."

"Naturally we think our league is the best of the minor pros, but it would be a good idea to prove it," Houston said after an EPHL meeting.

He said he will suggest two games be played in the home city of each league champion in the East with four games on the ice of the WHL winner. In the event of a first-place tie there would be a sudden-death game.

Last year the fledgling EPHL tried unsuccessfully to get the Western League to agree to a playoff. Recent suggestions of a playoff between the AHL and WHL haven't mentioned the EPHL.

Rails Score Large Gains At New York

NEW YORK (UPI) — Railroad shares scored their biggest gain on average in 17 months to spearhead a general advance on the New York stock exchange.

The Dow-Jones railroad average, sprinkled with gains of a point or more, pushed ahead 3.75 to 144.89. Only two carriers listed in the average, Great Northern and New Haven, failed to rise.

The biggest gains, other than the rails, were scored by electronics, oils, food shares, aircraft and very many of the popular specialty situation stocks.

Volume, mounting as prices rose sharply in the morning and again at the bell, came to 4,360,000 shares against 3,830,000 the day before.

Losses Restored

TORONTO (CP) — Making up for Tuesday's all-round losses, the stock market climbed on a broad front.

Among papers, Anglo-Canadian Pulp gained a point and Toronto-Dominion Bank paced the banks upward.

Utilities lined up with Gathieu Power and Northland, both up a point.

Gold stocks, a beating, but western oils moved slowly ahead.

Texaco Relapses

MONTREAL (CP) — Four of the six official indices recorded fractional advances.

Dominion Tar, second most active industrial issue, closed unchanged at 15 1/2 on turnover of 8,020 shares. Howard Smith was up 1/4 at 39 on turnover of 3,465 shares.

Canadian Food Products gained 1/4 at 5 1/2. Page-Henry rose 1/4 to 25 1/2.

Texaco of Canada, down 1/4 at 80 1/2, paced losers.

International Nickel continued to show strength, up 1/4 at 62 1/2.

Strength in Mines

VANCOUVER — Mines showed some strength with Cragmont at 7.40, Balmore at 7.50 and Granduc at 1.34.

Among lower-priced stock Silver Standard advanced to 34 and Bethlehem to 78.

Industrials were mixed with Massey-Ferguson, Crown Zellerbach, Canadian TransCanada and Labatts making gains, while B.C. Power and B.C. Forest Products slipped fractionally from early session trading.

Oils did little.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters) — Stock markets in London were generally quiet and irregular.

Glit-edged securities continued to make some progress and foreign bonds were selectively better, but in rails Canada Pacific eased slightly.

Several leading industrial attracted buyers and a number of good improvements were established on balance.

Gold opened firm but later eased. Oil shares trended lower but later rallied and showed some gains.

Sugar Decision Appeal in May

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Crown appeal against acquisition of two British Columbia sugar farms faced with combined charges will be heard in May, the Manitoba court of appeal ruled Monday.

Montreal Bonds

MONTREAL (CP) — Some long-term Government of Canada bonds gained 1/4 and a few high-yield short-term Canada added 10 cents in an otherwise firm and unchanged Montreal bond market.

Winter Start Likely On New Paper Mill

New Capital Not Needed For Year

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

B.C. Forest Products is not likely to require new capital for its new paper mill at Crofton for about another year, according to A. G. Rankin, financial vice-president of the Vancouver company.

The new $25,000,000 mill is in the planning stage and construction is not expected to start until next winter.

Mr. Rankin stated yesterday that when the funds were required they would probably be raised through the sale of debentures. B.C. Forest Products already has an "A" series of sinking fund debentures of which $21,146,000 were outstanding at Sept. 30, 1960.

Payment of a 10 cents bonus by Consolidated Mining and Smelting was partly responsible for the higher figure this year.

Two officials of Branawick Pulp and Paper Company, which now owns 1,000,000 common shares of B.C. Forest Products, were elected to the board of the company. They are H. E. Whitaker and H. T. Mead.

The Royal Bank of Canada will shift its head office from 360 St. James Street West in Montreal to a new 42-story building at Place Ville Marie sometime in 1962.

The new building is to be known as the Royal Bank of Canada building, and the old building will be demoted to the Royal's St. James Street branch.

The Royal Bank will use the four bottom floors of the Place Ville Marie building.

Because of heavy depreciation allowances and non-recurring expenditures for capital additions, Ontario Steel Products directors have decided to omit the 10 cent quarterly dividend usually paid on Feb. 15. S. J. Randall, president, stated the company would resume payments as soon as conditions justified.

W. M. McCutcheon Q.C. of Toronto has been elected chairman of the board of B.C. Forest Products, in succession to E. P. Taylor, who continues as a member of the board and the executive committee.

Grain Market

WINNIPEG (CP) — Irregularity prevailed in all commodities.

Flax trade was especially erratic.

The proceeds of the new loan will be used to reduce the refunding requirements of the $25,000,000 loan due on May 1.

It is significant that, apart from a 5 1/2 per cent CNR guaranteed issue, the Government has no other bond issue falling due in 1964.

Another $50,000,000 of the new bonds is being sold to the Bank of Canada in exchange for an equal amount of a 3 per cent bond issue which falls due on May 1.

Books on the new loan close tonight and as they are right on the current short term market, a good response is expected.

The line would cross the Peace River oil pipeline and follow the Westcoast route to a point near 150 Mile House on the Caribou Highway where it would turn south and east to join Trans-Mountain near Kamloops. The distance would be about 300 miles.

The plan proposed by Trans-Mountain Pipeline also starts at Taylor but hugs closer to the B.C. Alberta border and would join the Trans-Mountain line at Alberta near Jasper. This line would be shorter—about 220 miles—but it would be over rugged and unprepared country for all of its distance.

The third pipeline proposal is Peace River Oil Pipeline Company. It would construct a 160-mile pipeline over the Alberta border where it would join an existing pipe system at Sturgeon Lake. The Sturgeon Lake line runs about 150 miles to join Trans-Mountain at Edmonton.

Because it already has a right of way for most of the distance, Westcoast Transmission appears to have some advantage over its rivals for the job.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dairy farmers suggested Wednesday that the federal government subsidize housewives in their purchase of butter, at least to the extent of 10 cents a pound.

National convention of the Dairy Farmers of Canada delegates passed a motion requesting a federal subsidy on butter to make it available at a cost more competitive with margarine and other butter substitutes.

The meeting asked, however, that the present 64-cents-a-pound floor price be maintained to keep returns to the producer at present levels.

Fraser Road Open Today

VANCOUVER (CP)—The highways department expected to have the Trans-Canada Highway through the Fraser River Canyon, cut by mammoth washouts and slides during the week-end, opened early today.

But the CNE said there was no change in its forecast that its line will not be opened for another two weeks. The CPR refused to make a forecast on its reopening.

Numerous sections of the highway and railways were cut by slides and washouts caused by heavy weekend rains.

FRANK HALL
... non-ops leader

Criticized by Union

Rail Negotiator Planning to Quit

MONTREAL (CP)—Angered by union criticism of his role in conducting the wage dispute between Canada's railways and their 111,000 non-operating employees, chief union negotiator Frank Hall plans to submit his resignation next week, union sources say.

Mr. Hall, who has led the non-ops in their negotiations with the railways since 1947, will offer his resignation to the 15 unions' general conference committee when it meets in Montreal Jan. 24, the sources say.

Asked to comment on the reports, Mr. Hall said: "Anything I have to say on this matter will be said to the general conference committee when they meet next week." The 100-member committee, composed of the top officers of the unions representing the non-ops, is meeting to ratify the May 16 strike date set last month by the joint negotiating committee after a nation-wide strike called for Dec. 3 was outlawed by emergency federal legislation.

The legislation expires May 15.

Rancher in Doctor's Office

Bizarre Death Probed

MOSSBANK, Sask. (CP)—Investigators Wednesday were still piecing together the bizarre circumstances surrounding the death of a Saskatchewan rancher found dead Tuesday in a physician's office with a wound in his chest.

Coroner Dr. J. M. Hourigan of Moose Jaw said the wound may have been made in an attempt to massage the heart of Mathew Stanley Demich, 40-year-old father of three.

The physician, Dr. Douglas Jamieson, 42, was taken to hospital.

Dr. Hourigan ordered an autopsy performed on Demich. Dr. Jamieson was discovered in the living quarters adjoining his office in what was described as a "deep sleep."

RCMP heard of the death early Tuesday from rancher Roy Pearson, 45, who had accompanied the dead man to Dr. Jamieson's office Monday.

RCMP Const. J. D. Osborne said Demich had been complaining of a sore neck. Treatment continued through most of the day and evening.

He said Pearson was given sleeping tablets by Dr. Jamieson and retired about 1 a.m. When Pearson awakened, he is reported to have found Demich lying dead under a sheet in the office treatment room, with the doctor in a "deep sleep" in another room.

Labor Council Ranks Reduced

R. C. Barrie, re-elected last night to a fourth term as president of Victoria Labor Council, predicted organized labor in Canada would emerge stronger than ever before once the New Party is successfully launched.

He was commenting on the report made by the V.L.C. credentials committee that the labor council lost 2,887 affiliated members during 1960.

FLURRY OF CHARGES
The Victoria and Colquhoun branches of B.C. Government Employees' Association with drew last year in a flurry of charges over political action. Their membership represented the bulk of total of 2,187 members withdrawn from council affiliation.

Another 563 members belonged to organizations—mainly Teamsters with a few members of the Seafarers' International Union—expelled by order of the Canadian Labor Congress.

On Jan. 1 this year, 68 local unions were affiliated with Victoria Labor Council, having a total membership of 9,405. Mr. Barrie blamed the prolonged period of organizing the New Party, to be launched at an Ottawa convention next July, for dissension in labor ranks over political action.

W. G. Gauld, Vancouver Island representative for the C.L.C., said the council suffered a heavy blow in losing some of its affiliated organizations. But he predicted new organizations would join the council this year.

OTHER OFFICERS
Other council officers elected were: E. T. Staley, first vice-president; Edwin Haw, second vice-president; A. W. Toone, secretary-treasurer; George Bone, sergeant-at-arms.

Committees are as follows: Fred Bevia, organization; Percy Rayment, legislative; Robert Noble, unemployment; J. Evans, education; Jack MacKenzie, political education; James A. Moffat, credentials.

Seven Point Plan

Flood Compensation Refused in Cowichan

By CHARLES THOMPSON
NORTH COWICHAN—North Cowichan council yesterday granted $5,000 to the area's flood relief fund and laid out a seven-point program designed to aid last weekend's flood victims and put an end to periodic inundations in the area.

But a 35-member delegation of residents from the hardest hit Wall Subdivision which crowded into the council chamber for an hour-and-a-half talk with council was flatly told the municipality could not compensate for property damage.

But Reeves Donald Morton said "nobody could be more sympathetic in this matter than we are."

These points were brought out:

1. The provincial secretary's office will be contacted today by the municipality to ask "guidance on how to approach the governments on flood relief."
2. A vote on a sewage plan will be submitted to ratepayers between the Trans-Canada Highway and Lakes Road "that should take away any future pollution worries" within a few months.
3. The municipality agreed to pay for temporary accommodation in motels for 13 families who were flooded out.
4. The reeve promised to make a concerted effort to bring together provincial, federal, city and municipal governments and the Indian department to see if something can be done to clear the channels of local rivers.
5. Health officials will give

Tot Still Serious

Stepmother Faces Charge Of Assault

Charged in Uxmal by the RCMP with assault causing actual bodily harm to her three-year-old stepdaughter, Mrs. Margaret Hill, 25, yesterday was remanded to appear Jan. 25, in the force's Victoria police court.

When she appears here, before Magistrate A. I. Thomas, it is expected there will be a further remand. The young woman has been released on her own recognizance, without bail being asked.

The child, Leslie Hill, is still in serious condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering concussion. She was rushed here by plane and taxi from Long Beach, where she was living with her father, a logger, her stepmother and a younger brother.

An older sister lives in Victoria with the children's mother, Mrs. Donna Hill. The first Mrs. Hill and husband Bruce were divorced about 12 months ago. The father remarried his present wife about six months ago.

Russians Ask Dag To Free Lumumba

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—The Soviet delegation asked United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld Wednesday night to take whatever action necessary to free Patrice Lumumba from prison in Katanga province where he was transferred for security reasons.

Lumumba in New Jail In Chief Foe's Hands

ELISABETHVILLE (UPI)—Patrice Lumumba, who left a Belgian prison here 12 months ago to become the Congo's first premier, was in a new jail yesterday, in the hands of his worst enemy, Katanga President Moïse Tshombe.

A Swedish United Nations air control officer who watched when Lumumba was flown in yesterday from Thysville, 80 miles outside Leopoldville, where he was held by Col. Joseph Mobutu, described as "absolute nonsense" reports Lumumba was beaten and kicked by Katanga soldiers.

Officials in Leopoldville, who ordered Lumumba removed from Thysville to get him away from restless Congolese soldiers who might have released him, said the deposed premier was not mistreated on his departure.

Unconfirmed reports said Lumumba and the two men flown here with him were in "terrible physical shape" on arrival.

Fish Spawning Channel Undamaged by Flooding

The federal fisheries department's $256,000 Robertson Creek salmon spawning channel, 11 miles from Alberni, apparently came out of Sunday's flooding rainstorms unscathed.

"This good control is a wonderful thing. The closure gates kept the water down, but another day of rain and we would have been in trouble," said federal fisheries officer Jim Connor. Robertson Creek is a system of spawning channels, largest of its kind in the world, specially designed for experimental purposes and to introduce a run of pinks to the Somers River system and increase coho and spring salmon runs in the same system.

Mr. Connor said it is too early yet to assess damage to spawning beds on other rivers and streams in the Alberni area, but undoubtedly thousands of salmon eggs have been washed out.

Man Hurt

Cleaver Slasher Eludes Detectives

Baffled detectives drew a blank in a Chinatown search last night after a Chinese butcher was slashed by a young attacker wielding a meat cleaver.

The wild attack took place about 6 p.m. less than a block from the police station. Detectives drew a cloak of secrecy around their operations while they scoured Chinatown in a fruitless one-hour search.

Sam Tim, 554 Flaggard, was reported in satisfactory condition in St. Joseph's Hospital at press time this morning after treatment for a deep cut and severed wrist tendon.

Finally it was learned that detectives were seeking a Chinese about 25 years old, but were unable to turn up who had walked into Sam's butcher shop while he and a friend, Sam Fong Kee, were having supper.

The attacker picked up a meat cleaver, cut a piece of pork on the counter then turned and swung the weapon at Sam striking him on the wrist laying it open and severing a tendon, then fled from the store.

Detectives said Sam recognized his attacker as an acquaintance.

The officers scoured Chinatown with Rev. Howard Ha Chinese about 25 years old, but were unable to turn up who had walked into Sam's

Sneak Thieves Grab Tools, Keys

Car-inhabiting sneak thieves made off with a set of mechanic's tools and gauges, an electric razor and a set of house and car keys in two separate thefts last night.

Police said Frank Woods, 1285 Monterey Avenue, reported the tools stolen from his truck while it was parked in front of 739 Pandora.

Roy Chudleigh, 955 Joan Crescent, told police his electric razor, a work shirt and keys to his car and house were stolen from his car while it was parked in his back yard between 6 and 8 p.m.

Two Cars Crash

Headlight and taillight glass were scattered over the road last night after a two-car crash at Bay and Quadra.

Police said a car driven by Mrs. Jessie Whalen, 1800 Chandler, who was apparently stopped for a red light, was in collision with a car driven by Fritz Bauer, 2306 Belmont.

No one was hurt.

City Schools to See TV Lesson Show

Community leaders and teachers will be invited to attend a demonstration of closed-circuit television lessons to be staged in S. J. William Junior High School Feb. 1 to 3.

School board chairman W. C. Gelling said yesterday an eastern firm has loaned the equipment and will send its engineers out to set up a camera and receiver system free of charge.

"We are not committed in any way by this and we have no intention of purchasing the equipment," Mr. Gelling said.

He said the school board, which last year proposed spending $19,500 on a pilot TV lesson project here but failed to gain support of municipalities and the province, welcomed the free opportunity to see the system work.

Boat Explosion Blasts Two Into Hospital

CAMPBELL RIVER—A Victoria man and a Campbell River man are in hospital here today suffering broken jaws, facial lacerations and burns following an explosion aboard a towboat on Buttle Lake late Tuesday.

Injured were Kenneth McKellar, Campbell River, and Victorian Nicholas Gretchen, both employees of Sooke Lake Logging Co.

The men were working on the engine of the boat when the manifold exploded, throwing debris into their faces and causing burns to the upper parts of their bodies.

One fragment blew a hole in the boat but it was above the waterline.

Both men were knocked unconscious by the blast and were found in their boat by Harper Balkie of Balkie Brothers Logging Company.

Balkie was coming down the lake in a speedboat when he spotted the crippled craft and its two injured occupants.

He took their craft in tow and rushed the men to hospital.

City Hall Can't Fight City Hall

Even city hall can't fight city hall.

The city building department has condemned the wiring in an apartment block on Caledonia and ordered the building rewired. And the land commissioner's office, in charge of the city-owned building, has had to agree and ask for the cost to be placed in this year's maintenance estimates.

Tub Trees This Year?

City parks administrator is hopeful, he said yesterday, that this will be the year for first beautification of downtown streets with trees in tubs.

At budget time, he said, "I'm going to try again to get $500 to make some tubs so we can do some downtown street planting experimentally, because I'm sure one of these days there is going to be a call for a full-scale program."

Damage Light

Damage was light in a two-car collision at Government and Flaggard Streets last night. Police said a car driven by Ray Jubany, 433 Parry, struck the right-hand door of a car driven by Chow Sew Hong, 818 Belmont. There were no injuries.

Esquimalt-Saanich

John D's Ex-Aide After Nomination

By PETER BRUTON

Vancouver lawyer Gowan Guest, recently retired as Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's executive assistant, yesterday said he would be a candidate for the Progressive Conservative nomination in the Esquimalt-Saanich federal by-election.

His decision to stand, he said, was the "result of requests made to me in recent weeks by many supporters of the Conservative party in the Esquimalt-Saanich riding and after conversations here with officers, members and supporters of the party in the last few days."

Mr. Guest said he would come here at the beginning of February to devote his full time as a candidate for nomination and election.

"It follows of course that if I am chosen my home will be Esquimalt-Saanich," he said.

Mr. Guest is the third Conservative to announce he is seeking the nomination.

BATS IN RING

John C. B. Keane, an Oak Bay engineer, and Cecil Holmes, former Conservative federal organizer in B.C. both have their hats in the ring.

In addition, Saanich Reeve George Chatterton has said he is willing to be "drafted" for the nomination but will not actively seek it because as a federal employee he is not permitted to take part in politics.

"Mr. Chatterton certainly won't be drafted," said Mr. Guest yesterday.

SUPPORT BID

Mr. Guest, who was accompanied by Progressive Conservative branch president Harry Rennie when he made his announcement, wrote many local Conservatives asking them to support his bid for the nomination some months ago while still employed by the prime minister.

The by-election, which has not yet been called, is to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes when he was appointed to his new post last October.

Mr. Guest said he hoped the nominating meeting, to be held

GOWAN GUEST

Feb. 17, will be vigorously representative of the Conservative-minded people of the riding.

He urged all his supporters and others who are not yet members of the Esquimalt-Saanich branch to take out a membership card for $1 before Feb. 7.

Liberal candidate Capt. David Gross and New Party standard-bearer Glen Hamilton were both nominated unopposed. Social Credit has not yet named its candidate.

Suggestion to B.C. Welfare:

Adopt Children's Aid

A CCF member of the legislature yesterday said consideration should be given to the feasibility of children's aid societies being incorporated in the child welfare division of the welfare department.

David Barrett, M.L.A. for Dewdney, said at present two-thirds of the budgets of the three children's aid societies in the province were being met by provincial government grants.

The remaining one-third came from the Community Chest.

"The residents of larger areas such as Victoria and Vancouver are being asked to pay twice—by paying taxes and by contributing to the Chest," he said.

Mr. Barrett's suggestion is similar to one made by former B.C. child welfare superintendent Ruby McKay who resigned recently because of what she termed "restrictive policies" of the government towards welfare.

Saanich Firemen Hold Line

Saanich firemen have agreed to hold the line on wages for 1961, Reeve George Chatterton announced last night.

"The firemen's business agent told me this tonight," he said. Other details of the proposed contract were not known last night.

Saanich police Tuesday announced they would not seek wage increases. Negotiations are under way between the municipality and members of the inside and outside staffs.

Two Years Overdue

Downtown in Uproar At Assessment Hike

An "overdue" reassessment of downtown Victoria land which has added more than $1,500,000 to the city's assessment roll has brought a chorus of protest to city hall.

More than 40 appeals are scheduled to be heard by this year's court of revision, assessor Alfred Joyce said yesterday, the majority from owners of land in the more prosperous part of the business district.

BIG INCREASE

"There has been a big increase in land assessments," Mr. Joyce said, "but it should have taken place in 1959. The delay was due to the time it took to analyze the market. We studied sales in a five-year period of vacant property, and this is the result."

"It would appear that some owners are concerned over a big increase in one year, but they have been getting a break in not having to pay taxes on higher assessments in the last two years."

SOME DECREASED

In rundown business areas, Mr. Joyce said, some land assessments have been decreased.

The revaluation apparently is responsible for about one-half of this year's total increase in Victoria's assessment roll for taxation purposes.

Mayor Percy Scurrell reported in his inaugural address to council that "for the general rate, the (roll) amount has increased in 1960 from $61,846,262 to a total for 1961 of $94,333,747, or an increase of $3,087,505, which is 3.36 per cent."

Gross assessment roll, including all tax-exempt properties, increased from $102,444,860 to $167,124,247, he said.

Two Shows Planned For Audubon Film

International award-winning nature photographer Robert Hermon of the National Audubon Society will show films and lecture on "Animals at Home and Afield" at Oak Bay Junior High School at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

'Sabotage' Admitted

Coun. Leslie Passmore last night admitted he is trying to "sabotage" plans for the orderly development of Saanich's Shelbourne area ... but with qualifications.

And Reeve George Chatterton and Coun. Stanley Murphy, chairman of the council's lands and planning committee, joined together to defend the plan.

"If attempting to protect the rights and interests of ratepayers is sabotage, then I plead guilty," Coun. Passmore said. "The council is elected to carry out the wishes of the ratepayers, not dictate to them."

The plan suggests ideal uses for undeveloped land and Coun. Murphy wants council to rezone land for the suggested uses, even over the owners' wishes, to prevent it being sold and put to some other use.

"I believe that in many instances there would be no objection on the part of the ratepayer to have his property zoned as the plan recommends and in all these cases we should immediately rezone the land," Coun. Passmore added.

The charge of "sabotage" was laid by Coun. Murphy. "This plan must not be either torpedoed or pigeonholed by people who do not understand planning and are out of sympathy with it," he said.

Reeve Chatterton added: "I think we are arriving at the crossroads and we must never forget what lack of planning in the past has done to the present."

Army Pay Allowance Topic for Discussion

Pay allowances of units of the regular army and militia will be discussed by the army's director of pay services, Col. D. S. Hutchison during a visit to Victoria Jan. 30.

Famed Empress Fare 'Warmed-Up Pancakes'

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

SUSPICIONS CONFIRMED: The fame of the Empress Hotel's tea and crumpets is not, apparently, as widespread as some of our tourist experts seem to think.

Two American women were sitting in the hotel recently when tea and crumpets were delivered to their table.

"What's this?" whispered one, jabbing at the crumpet with her finger.

"Gosh only knows," replied the other. "I think they've just warmed up the left-over pancakes from breakfast!"

CRYSTAL BALL GAZING:

Some time ago, federal government authorities asked a prominent engineer to estimate the price of Columbia River power delivered in Vancouver.

"You're asking the impossible," said the engineer. "The reliable estimate can be made only after the completion of all the engineering surveys."

"Well, make a guess," replied the authorities.

The engineer sat down with the only data available—out-of-date reports and cost estimates compiled years ago when money was a lot cheaper and things didn't cost as much as today.

Using these figures, and calculating on the basis that IF money could be obtained at such and such a figure and IF the cost of the dams was so and so and IF there were absolutely no engineering difficulties etc., power from the development might be delivered for 3.77 mills.

"But for goodness sake, don't publish that," said the engineer. "It's probably far off what the actual cost will be."

Shortly afterwards Justice Minister David Fulton said bluntly and definitely that Columbia River power would be delivered to Vancouver for 3.77 mills.

Critics of the provincial government know only too well that the figure is both unrealistic and unreliable yet they continue to parrot the government for one reason and one reason only.

If the cost eventually turns out to be six mills they can turn around and blame provincial government "inefficiency" for adding to the cost of power.

That's why Premier Bennett won't sign the agreement with Ottawa until (a) Ottawa guarantees the 3.77-mill price (which it won't) or (b) until the Energy Board report is made.

MOUTHPIECE: When Mr. Speaker Hugh Shanley has a problem concerning his riding how does he get it to the floor of the legislature?

"Most of such work is done across a desk in a cabinet minister's office," he explains. "In the past when I had something I wanted brought up I would get Frank Richter to say it for me. Our ridings are close and we have the same problems."

Mr. Richter now is minister of agriculture.

AID FOR SEUTINS: Two employees of a night janitor service were forced to call on city police to get them out of a building after unwittingly locking themselves in Tuesday.

A little red faced, they dropped their keys (which would not work from the inside) out of a window and a constable released them.

Evidently the same thing had happened before due to a faulty lock.

JUNGLE TELEGRAPH:

The way I hear it, Esquimalt MLA Herb Bruch is thinking of standing as Social Credit candidate for the Esquimalt-Saanich federal by-election.

He wasn't available yesterday to confirm or deny but some of my spies say he has been studying up on federal election procedures in the provincial library of late.

Mr. Bruch sought the national Social Credit presidency some months back but had to settle for vice-president.

Herb works full time as a Social Credit organizer and has always polled exceptionally well in Esquimalt—one half of the federal Esquimalt-Saanich riding.

If he decides to stand he must be rated as a top contender to win the seat.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter is engaged to a fine young man who is away at college. When he comes home, every third weekend, they are inseparable. Greta looks at her fiancé with such adoring eyes you'd think she worshipped him.

Ten minutes after he leaves our home she's out the front door with another fellow. She has three or four young men around town who take her out behind her fiancé's back. I've told Greta this is wrong but she claims the others are only platonic friends, and that I am over-mindful.

Last night my husband and I returned from a party early. The house was pitch black and we assumed she was out. When we switched on the living room light we found Greta and a young man sitting on the couch. They were disheveled and embarrassed. Greta is 22—old enough to know better. What shall we do?—SIDE-LINERS

Dear Side-liners: There is nothing you can—or should do. Now that you know Greta lied about the platonic friendships be prepared for the roof to cave in. Her fiancé eventually will get a cheerful little earful and the engagement will be off.

Dear Ann Landers: I've been going with a well-to-do bachelor for 12 years. He led me to believe that when his mother died we would get married. It's been eight months since her death and he still refuses to discuss the future. His answer is, "Be patient until I work out my problems." He takes me to dinner three times a week, always to the nicest places. Frequently he phones my sister and invites her, too. She broke her engagement five years ago and always accepts. I thought for a while he was asking her to be nice but now I wonder if he invites her so we can't discuss marriage plans. I'm fed up with the whole setup but I'm afraid to act jealous or force the issue or I may lose him. When a girl reaches 35 it's difficult to meet men friends. Please tell me what to do.—FRUSSTRAY, TED

Dear Frustray: What more must happen before you get the message? The first flag was his promise to marry you when his mother died. An adult who has to wait for a funeral before he can have a wedding is stalling. This man is too immature to accept the responsibilities of marriage. Unless you want to "go with" him another 12 years give him the air.

Dear Ann Landers: Our 10-year-old son came from school in tears. The teacher said to him, in the presence of the class, "I don't know why you're so stupid. Your brother was a wonderful student."

Our older son is brilliant and makes excellent grades almost without effort. This boy is slower and it's sad to see him struggle and not do nearly so well. My husband says the teachers were only trying to get him to do better. He saw nothing wrong with her remark. Comment, please.—T.R.

Dear T. R.: The teacher should not have called him stupid, nor should she have made the comparison. Life is tough enough for the less bright brother. Talk to the teacher. The boy needs to be built up, not knocked down.

If alcohol is making you or someone you love drunk and dangerous, read ANN LANDER'S booklet, "Help For The Drunkard," available with your request to me in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. (Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper containing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

TIPS FOR PARENTS

BY EDITH HENRY

Behavior is a way of acting. We speak of it as good or bad. It could be described more accurately as acceptable, or unacceptable.

The eating habits of a small South Sea Islander, for example, might be quite acceptable (good) in his part of the world but unacceptable (bad) in ours.

Behavior differs with time, place, and from one individual to another. But it seems that the causes of behavior, those urges which prompt activity from within us, are the same for all.

Today, we have come to think that what we do is prompted by our needs, wants and desires.

Sometimes our needs are physical.

The need of sleep can make a child behave in a way that is irritating.

Investigation showed that hunger lay behind the late-morning restlessness of a class of growing adolescent boys who lacked an adequate breakfast.

Sometimes we speak of needs as being psychological. Curiosity is an example—the need to find out. It stimulates activity as any parent of an exploring two-year-old knows.

Then we have need of friends, of a group where we feel at home, of success, security and so on.

Our behavior represents our way of fulfilling—our needs. Sometimes we get what we want in an acceptable way, sometimes we behave badly.

Children are born with needs, but not with the knowledge of how to fulfill them acceptably.

Giving them this knowledge is one of the main tasks of parenthood.

Greenhouse Gossip

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

So far this winter, I must have received at least a dozen letters from readers asking me in comment on the problem of greenhouse heating. I don't think I have ever discussed this subject before, chiefly because it is a frightfully complicated matter, at least as applied to the amateur's greenhouse.

The first big difficulty lies in acquiring the wherewithal to buy an adequate heating system. The second is in paying the fuel or electric bills, which can mount up to a pretty penny. The third is deciding at what temperature the greenhouse is to be operated.

In one-crop commercial greenhouses, this is simple enough — you just pick the temperature that best suits your crop and let it go at that. In a backyard gardener's home greenhouse, with its mixed bag of plants, the difficulty lies in the varying needs of different plants.

A temperature and humidity which is adequate for one plant may induce soft, sappy, unhealthy growth in another. Cucumbers, for instance, do best in high humidity and an almost tropical temperature. Tomatoes in the same greenhouse would have a tendency to come down with a weird assortment of fungus diseases.

Generally speaking, I think it is best to set the thermostat at a fairly low temperature, if only for the cost factor. The fuel bills to maintain a greenhouse at 60 degrees will be almost twice as high as for 50 degrees, and it is remarkable what you can do with even just a little heat.

Most plants can be kept alive and thriving at 40 degrees, even though they don't put on much in the way of growth and will seldom bloom in an atmosphere this cool. At 50 degrees you can grow practically anything except the tropical subjects.

Most backyard gardeners like to use their greenhouse for giving all kinds of seeds an early start in life, and unfortunately, while 50 degrees is fine for seedlings and adult plants, most seeds need a considerably higher temperature to induce vigorous germination. This is nature's provision for preventing self-sown seeds from poking their noses out too early in the year.

The whole greenhouse just to germinate a few pots or boxes of seeds; moreover, it wouldn't be good for the other occupants of the house. The trick here is to put together a small propagating case — in effect, a small greenhouse within a greenhouse — with its own source of heat, preferably from below the boxes or pots. It is a fairly simple matter to knock up a light frame of 2-by-2 lumber and cover it with plastic film.

The heat source, in its simplest form, could be a couple of low-wattage electric light bulbs fitted underneath the propagating case. Somewhat higher in the social scale, an electric heating cable, designed for cold frame use, does a grand job. Simply unbed the cable in dry sand, arrange your pots and boxes of seeds on top, cover with the plastic frame, and turn on the heat.

Various improvisations will come to mind — one of my friends germinated a fine batch of seedlings over an electric heating pad snatched from his wife's bed. Such a pad, incidentally, has its own built-in thermostat to maintain temperature at a constant level.

Authentic Master of Mystery

Dashiell Hammett, who died the other day, was that rare thing — a shaker of the earth, an authentic. "The Maltese Falcon" was one of the best books of its kind ever written. It struck the publishing world and the reading world — which is something entirely distinct from the literary world — like a thunderclap. Nothing has been the same since.

Realism. Vigor. Vitality. Callousness. Immorality. Amoralism. Muscular. Hard-boiled. They were all words applied to Hammett at various times. But authentic fits him better. He'd been a Pinkerton for eight years and when he created Sam Spade he knew what he was talking about. Sam Spade's toughness was deep as his own marrow. It came as a shock to the readers but not to the trade. After all Hammett had been there. When Spade made love to a girl and later rifled her purse in pursuit of evidence, it was perhaps not the particular chain of events customary to the average cape, but the morality of his hero and, of his private detective profession, was explicitly real.

Then came the imitators. Today the television air is full of imitation Sam Spades. As a matter of fact, they are imitations of an imitation: the 77 Sunset Strip and the rest of them are now distilled by a whole batch of Hollywood hacks who have never been inside a police station. The stuff is turned out like salt water taffy now, rather sexy and violent stuff, but nevertheless as commercial as anything sold at Atlantic City. Only the corruption remains; the talent has long since fled. From Sam Spade, the terse, the laconic, the real, we went to Mike Hammer, who is something written on a man's menial wall.

Has the pendulum of popular adventure fiction swung? Or is it swinging, somewhere else?

The other day I read "The Nylon Pirates" by Nicholas Monsarrat, a very expert writer. "The Nylon Pirates" is not anything that will win the Nobel Prize but it has been on the best seller list for some time and I find it significant. It's a story about a gang of men and women who invade a luxury cruise with intent to shake down the passengers by sex, blackmail, gambling even a little simple theft, if necessary.

It's a movie script, really, but a good one. But what caught my eye was the locale. A luxury liner? Perhaps were getting out of the bedrooms, out of the police stations, out of the back alleys. And high time.

The real trend in the popular adventure field seems to be the scenery. First here was "The Numbered Account" which was a rather tepid adventure mystery, but full of matelous Swiss scenery. "The Nylon Pirates" is loaded with scenery: the Caribbean, the Cape, South Africa.

The movies started this passion for exotic scenery. Now the popular authors are rolling in description. The scenery hasn't exactly taken the play away from sex but it is competing with it and it seems to have diminished the interest in violence, thank God.

Hollywood Today

He Has Cause to Mutiny

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) — Marlon Brando doesn't care if he never comes back from Tahiti — as long as Tarita is there. Tarita is the girl who loves him in their "Mutiny on the Bounty" movie.

Richard Burton and Sir Laurence Olivier made a pact not to drink during January. "We're not alcoholics," Burton assured me. "We did it as a discipline thing." Richard is very excited about the "Posthumous Script" by Dylan Thomas discovered in a desk drawer after the Welsh poet-author died — "The Beach at Falesa," from a story by Robert Louis Stevenson, with James Mason to play "The Devil Incarnate."

Charlie Chaplin wants Sophia Loren to be his next leading lady. He has been in London with his wife, Oona, and oldest daughter Geraldine to see some plays and to discuss publication of the first part of his memoirs.

Jackie Gleason lost the role of Oliver Hardy in the Du Pont Show of the Month in March, because of his picture commitment in "Gigot." Art Carney is just about set to play Alan Ladd, with producer David Susskind now considering Buddy Hackett or Jonathan Winters for the role of the late plump comedian.

Maverick creator Jack Garner, who recently won his freedom from Warners, is planning with 20th Century-Fox for a three-picture deal, with the first, "The Combicheros," with Gary Cooper. Jim, who was getting less than $2,000 weekly at Warners, can now get a minimum $150,000 per picture. So you can see that it sometimes pays to rebel.

Lolita in London is leading the life of a young hermit away from the cameras. When 14-year-old Sue Lyon finishes playing the nymphlet for the day, she is driven off with her mother in a chauffeured car to a secret hide-away. All this tomfoolery makes for publicity, doesn't it?

Marilyn Monroe would okay Gene Kelly to play Sergeant O'Hara, with Mr. and Mrs. Fredric March as the Rev. and Mrs. Davidson, in her "Rain" TV spectacular.

This reporter will be very surprised if MM's current dates with Joe Di Maggio lead to the altar again. They found each other homeless during their marriage. Desi Arnaz is avoiding Miami because of all the Cuban refugees there. Desi's father left Cuba two dictators before Castro, and living in Miami, has warned Desi not to come there because so many of his countrymen would want to "borrow" Yankee dollars.

When Steve Allen saw Las Vegas for the first time last week, he turned to wife Joyce Meadows and said, "I can't believe it." Steve will make his first appearance there in a night-club act with his wife on March 18. Later, this fine performer — currently unemployed on television — will go to London for three months in the Burgess Meredith production of "A Thousand Clowns."

I have to revise my statement that Shirley Maclaine and Elizabeth Taylor would be battling it out for the "best performance" by an actress at Oscar time. The girl they will both have to beat is Deborah Kerr for her really great performance in "The Sundowners" and, in the same movie, Robert Mitchum was never better.

Billy Wilder's "One, Two, Three," by Melnar, was originally planned for Marlene Dietrich. Then for Danny Kaye. Now it is for Jimmy Cagney. You can bet that all the big shots will be fighting to be in Billy's "The Apartment." Wilder's new picture, Wilder, you may remember, also directed and wrote "Some Like It Hot" and so many other goodies. The only film of his I didn't like was his Lindbergh movie biog.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

I usually spend the weeks after Christmas playing games with the children. After all, those new games must be sampled and tested, and clearly that's a job for a grown-up person who has the necessary judgment and experience.

This year the two main attractions were a "Happy Families" game made by a famous Vienna playing card firm and a "Wide World" board game, made by a U.S. firm. "Happy Families," in case you don't know about such things, is the English name for

Ordered to China

The "Wide World" game is one of those board games you're ordered to Hawaii in the chutes and ladders principle. You take command of a plane and are told to go to various countries in succession — Iceland, Peru, China, Alaska — whatever card turns up next. Whenever it's your move, you throw a dice and proceed so-and-so many spaces in the proper direction.

There are all sorts of diversions, of course — suddenly you're ordered to Hawaii in the chutes and ladders principle. You take command of a plane and are told to go to various countries in succession — Iceland, Peru, China, Alaska — whatever card turns up next. Whenever it's your move, you throw a dice and proceed so-and-so many spaces in the proper direction.

Like Life's Game

Why? Because they're built for enjoyment. They give us a chance to play something like the game of life without any serious risk. There's always a possibility, down to the very last move, to turn near-certain defeat into triumphant victory; and — with pleasant Schadenfreude — to snatch the prize from your opponent.

There's a degree of skill you can learn and display and, better still, there's lots and lots of sheer chance which may or may not work in your favor. And then, at the end, there's the delicious knowledge that it's all just a game and you can always start a new game from scratch if you lose this one.

You'll say that real life isn't like that, but that's a gloomy view. The wisdom of the ages

Hundreds of Women 'Wearing' Fiery Death

MRS. JACQUELINE KENNEDY
... vacation over, work begins

BURLINGTON, Ont. — Fire Chief Reginald Law says hundreds of women may be walking around in dresses so inflammable they would burst into flame if touched by a spark.

He is trying to find out the type of dress worn by Mrs. James E. Law, who died after a cigarette spark set it ablaze. Chief Law suspects it may have been of a highly inflammable material popular a few years ago.

WASHINGTON — Tanned from Florida vacation, Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy arrived for husband's inauguration Friday. She will attend only two other events, inaugural concert and Frank Sinatra gala, both tonight.

Press Prober:

Can't Place All Blame On Imports

OTTAWA (UPI) — Gratian O'Leary, chairman of the royal commission on publications, yesterday criticized Canadian publishers who put all the blame for their misfortunes on U.S. competition.

"Are we going to attribute everything to the Americans without taking into consideration bad management?" he asked.

He said many U.S. magazines have folded over the years because they failed to keep pace and that the argument of foreign competition could not be used in their cases.

He made the remarks during an appearance before the commission of Floyd Chalmers, president of Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd.

KEPT UP WITH TIMES

O'Leary said Maclean-Hunter's publications have survived because they kept up with the times while some other Canadian publications fell by the wayside because they did not.

Chalmers said the "overflow" of U.S. magazine circulation into Canada was the largest factor in the death of Canadian periodicals.

Mark Farrel, general manager of the Montreal Standard Publishing Co. Ltd., called Time and Reader's Digest "poachers" entering a Canadian market already reduced by radio and television.

BANGKOK — Thailand put on a gay celebration as King Phumiphon Aduldej, Queen Sirikit and their children arrived home after a six-month world tour.

'He Wasn't Fisher of Men' Not All Praise For Primate

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons yesterday found stinging criticism amid the lavish praise for Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, the Archbishop of Canterbury, who Tuesday announced his impending retirement.

The Daily Mirror says in a front-page editorial the 73-year-old Dr. Fisher had done his best according to his lights, "but his lights were dim."

The Daily Mirror says: "Oh, for the days of Dr. Temple (Dr. Fisher's predecessor), who moved the hearts of people. Dr. Temple, who made Christianity mean something to the people in terms they could understand."

"In the judgment of most thinking people, it would be agreed that the Most Reverend and Right Honorable Geoffrey Francis Fisher... did not become a fisher of men..."

"All credit to Dr. Fisher for his recent efforts in the cause of Christian unity, but no credit at all for having failed, as archbishop, to convey the message of Christianity successfully in a hard and avowed age."

SPILT AN OFFENCE

In sharp contrast, The Times comments:

"Dr. Fisher has always been inspired by the belief that the divisions of Christendom, both between the churches and within particular churches, are an offence to Christ."

"He has sought to heal them by means which are the more effective for being undramatic... It has been a notable tenure."

Show Business

By Dick Williams

There are probably more amusing stories about Sam Goldwyn than any other person in Hollywood. But here's another from David Niven, who just finished a new role in "The Guns of Navarone."

It was Goldwyn who first put Niven under contract. Being a shrewd businessman, Sam would lend him out to other producers at a big markup. Since Niven was getting scarcely enough from his basic salary to scrape by, he supplemented his income by quietly taking a few radio jobs on the side. Sam finally heard about this.

In his kindly, fatherly way, Goldwyn explained that Niven could go on doing radio, but he would take half the fees in accordance with their contract.

The next show Niven did was for a food product company. In addition to his cheque, he was given a huge hamper of the company's products. David carefully split every can or package in half and sent his share to Sam in the basket, which was also cut in half.

Several weeks later they met at a party. Goldwyn put his arm around his protégé. "I think you should do the radio shows in a little different way, David. One for you and the next for me. It makes the accounting a little easier."

Right to Drink On Reserves Indians' Goal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Indian M.L.A. Frank Calder of Atlin said Wednesday northern tribes are urging Indians throughout B.C. to seek the right to purchase beer and liquor for consumption on reserves.

Four Nara villages in his constituency have started the ball rolling by sending resolutions to Citizenship Minister Fairclough.

She will advise the attorney-general of B.C. and, if she does not hear from him in 60 days, will notify the villages to go ahead with a plebiscite.

Power Boats Routed from Pond

Model Warfare

The traditional class-distinction which irrevocably separates the sail boat fraternity from the "stink-pot" sailors has caught the Dallas Road model yacht basin in its watery clutches and sent the power squadron packing.

The old rivalry between sail and power arose again when power descended on the yacht basin in reply to a complaint from a nearby resident and asked two model powerboat yachtsmen to move on.

The former Victoria mayor whose administration built the yacht basin seemed squarely on the side of equal rights for model power boats, but Mayor Scurrah was not so sure.

NO RESTRICTIONS

Said ex-mayor Claude Harrison, something of a yachtsman himself (power), the basin was built for the sailing of all kinds of boats without restrictions.

"I had no idea of restrictions on the pool, but of course if they are creating a disturbance, that's different."

Mayor Scurrah said as he remembered it the pool was built for the sailing of toy boats, the kind boys build. He said there had never been any suggestion of power boats.

"If people want to use these boats we'll have to get a ruling on it," he said. "We'll have to give it consideration and decide whether it's allowable or not. Council can easily decide on that."

Lorne Elves, 39, 737 Bank Street, one of the two using the pool when the complaint was laid, said he was quite disturbed by the incident. "The pool was built with taxpayers' money and I'm a taxpayer."

He said noise from the model boats was negligible and that groups of hobbyists had been to the pool 20 or 30 times during the past year and had never heard any complaints.

18-INCH BOATS

"Houses are a couple of hundred feet away from the pool," he said. "I can't see how the sound would disturb them."

His partner in the ill-fated

PERCY SCURRAH

cruiser, Stephen Hitchon, 18, 2621 Richmond, described the boats as 18 inches long and powered by model airplane engines.

"Most of the enthusiasts use their own designs," he said. The boats are worth about $30.

$12,000 Bill If Police Win Parity

Granting the Victoria police union's request for wage parity with the Vancouver force, city officials estimated yesterday, would add about $12,000 this year to city police costs—more if the force is expanded.

On Heels of Cuba Canada's Budget Upsetting to U.S.

NEW YORK (CP) — Americans reacted sharply to new Canadian tax changes because their feelings had been rubbed raw by events in Cuba, Finance Minister Fleming said Wednesday.

The Canadian finance chief told a business audience that the tax increase was not understood by the American people although the United States government responded with an "automatic" increase of its own.

GREATLY EXERCISED

It so happened that these tax changes were announced at a time when, unfortunately, the people of the United States were already greatly exercised, and understandably so, by the confiscation of U.S. properties and investments in Cuba," Fleming said.

NOT ANTI-AMERICAN

Fleming addressed the Canadian Club at a luncheon after a press conference in which he stressed that his supplementary budget brought down Dec. 20 was in no way an "anti-American budget." He also denied trade policies with Cuba are in any way an attempt to make money at the expense of the U.S.

Pickets Seek 10,000 Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — A group of 50 jobless men and one woman Wednesday picketed the Vancouver offices of Western Transmission Co. Ltd.

The pickets carried placards demanding 10,000 jobs, which they said, Western president Frank McMahon said would be lost if the Social Credit government was not returned to power in the last provincial election.

Mr. McMahon was out to lunch.

Thieves Take Candy Cash

A candy vending machine taken from in front of Land's End Coffee Shop, 109 Douglas Street, was found by a passerby in some bushes on Niagara Street early yesterday.

Police said two money containers on the machine had been smashed and the cash removed.

Early-Day Submariner John Jones Dies at 78

One of Canada's first submariners, John Thomson Jones, 78, died Sunday in Veterans' Hospital, and was buried yesterday.

Born in London, England, he served in the merchant marine and later the Royal Navy. In the First World War was torpedoed in the Irish Sea.

Transferring to undersea service, he was one of a group sent on loan by the Royal Navy to this coast, to operate the submarines purchased by Premier Sir Richard McBride. After the war he transferred to the Royal Canadian Navy.

from which he retired in 1935. In the Second World War, he directed the armament machine shop at HMC Dockyard.

Mr. Jones was a life member of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association, and belonged to the Red Chevrons, the Naval Veterans and Chiefs and PO's Association, and United Services Lodge No. 24, AF & AM, Esquimalt.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Minnie Jones, at home, 311 Gorge Road West; a son, Arthur and a daughter, Mrs. C. (Mary) Keays, both of Victoria.

U.S. Backs Allies Rejects Laos Parley

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has joined Britain and France in politely turning aside a Cambodian proposal for a 14-nation East-West conference to try to halt the war in Laos.

While leaving the door open to a peace conference later, the U.S. was reported in favor of other means for halting the fighting in the little southeast Asian kingdom.

Diefenbaker:

U.S. Ideas On Jobs 'Old' Here

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Wednesday most of the recommendations made for dealing with U.S. unemployment already have been implemented in Canada.

He was replying in the Commons to Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) who noted latest figures show 528,000 unemployed in Canada and wanted to know what "emergency policy or action is going to be taken."

Mr. Diefenbaker said that while in Washington Tuesday he read reports of suggestions made to an unemployment committee set up by President-elect Kennedy.

"Most if not all of the recommendations already have been implemented by this government," he said.

Mr. Winch replied tartly: "Your concern as prime minister is in the situation in Canada and not in what is in effect in the United States."

"Some people seem to think the bank will open tomorrow," says bank chairman Otto Bartz, 80. "I know that it just isn't so."

De Gaulle Willing to Talk

PARIS (UPI)—President de Gaulle and his cabinet Wednesday indicated willingness to explore the possibility of peace talks with the Moslem Algerian rebels.

At the same time, however, the cabinet declared it would proceed with de Gaulle's reorganization plans for the north African territory pending any peace.

Huge Theft Shakes Tiny Town

'She Was Generous'

SHELDON, Iowa (UPI)—Three signs tell the story of Sheldon.

You see one as you drive across the corn-rich prairies of northwest Iowa on your way into town. It reads:

"Bank with confidence . . . the Sheldon National Bank." The second sign, neatly typed on a piece of stationery, is on the door of the Sheldon National Bank. It says:

"This bank is closed by order of the board of directors."

WORDS VARY . . .

The third sign is posted on the cash registers of groceries, gasoline stations and general stores all over town. The words vary, but the most common version is:

"Sorry. We can not accept cheques on the Sheldon National Bank."

The signs tell not only the story of Sheldon, but of Mrs. Burrice Iverson Geiger, daughter of the president of the Sheldon National Bank and possibly the embezzler of the greatest sum of money in American banking history.

CHIC, TRIM

Mrs. Geiger, a chic, trim, 58-year-old woman, until Tuesday she was respected throughout Sheldon as a woman with a sympathetic heart. She sent poor boys through college. She helped ex-convicts become respected citizens. She was a 40-year employee of the bank, the assistant cashier, and her father's constant helper.

As her minister, The Rev. Thomas Lutman, 63-year-old pastor of the First Congregational Church, said in puzzled anguish:

"What has happened to one of the kindest, most generous women in our community." Today, Mrs. Geiger was locked up in the county jail at Sioux City, Iowa, 60 miles away. Federal authorities said she had confessed embezzling $2,126,859.10 from the Sheldon National Bank.

Deposits in the bank were insured up to $10,000 each and the townspeople would begin getting their money back in a few days as soon as the insurance men had completed their preliminary investigation.

But confidence was gone in Sheldon.

The people of Sheldon gathered on corner and asked: "What could she have done with it?"

They knew that nothing in the public lives of Mrs. Geiger or her husband provided a clue. The truth, possibly, may not be known for months.

No Place for Devil In New Catechism

LONDON (Reuters)—Senior Anglican clerics Wednesday reviewed the role of the devil in terms of the 20th century and concluded that the arch tempter has no place in the new Anglican catechism. Their decision, made at the Convocation of Canterbury here, comes up for discussion again in May. It means that Anglican children throughout the world will no longer be required to repeat the catechism's phrase: "I renounce the devil and all his works."

E. B. Paul Building Opened by Premier

By IAN STREET

Premier Bennett yesterday pledged a second $2,500,000 matching grant for further development of Victoria University over a five-year period starting in 1966.

The offer was made by the government on condition that the university development board raised a similar amount. The premier told a crowd of several hundred attending the official opening of the $329,000 E. B. Paul classroom and faculty building on the Lansdowne campus.

URGENT PLEA

Earlier, Acting Principal R. T. Wallace made an urgent plea for an extended "crash program" to meet the expected enrolment increase of more than 50 per cent over the next two years.

"We are very much concerned," said Prof. Wallace. "In the past two years there has been a 63 per cent increase in our enrolment... and we can expect it (enrolment) to be up proportionately in the next two years."

PUT THEM ALL

"I wonder where we are going to put them all," the acting principal said.

Prof. Wallace said it is "impressive" that the proposed student union building and a new cafeteria be completed by the start of the fall term in September.

He urged the government also to "give thought" to the provision of student residences.

JOHN D ATTACKS LIBERAL GLOATING

'Selling Canada Short'

OTTAWA (UPI)—Prime Minister John Diefenbaker last night accused the Liberals of exaggerating and gloating over Canada's present recession "in the hope of political advantage."

In what was believed the first mention by Diefenbaker of a recession in this country, he said the opposition was damaging Canada's present and future welfare by criticizing "without offering any effective solution."

POLITICAL ADVANTAGE

The prime minister said the situation would not be improved by pessimism.

"Selling Canada short will not do it," he said. "Destroying the confidence of Canadians in themselves will not do it and gloating over the recession in the hope of political advantage will not do it."

SHARP CONTRAST

The reference to "the recession" was in sharp contrast to Finance Minister Donald Fleming's recent denials that "there is no economic emergency at this time," and similar speeches by other cabinet ministers recently.

Inauguration Fever

Flags Deck Jammed U.S. Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President-elect John Kennedy, equipped with two top hats and a cutaway coat, started a whirlwind of inaugural events yesterday that will sweep him into the White House Friday.

Returning from a one-day stay in New York where he conferred on Latin American and other problems, Kennedy was greeted by a capital with scrubbed streets and buildings decked with U.S. flags, bunting and pictures of the new chief executive.

The official inauguration program was getting under way and the city was worked up to a fever pitch. Kennedy was an invited guest at a special party last night for Vice President-elect Lyndon Johnson and House Speaker Sam Rayburn.

There would be four inaugural balls, added a fifth and even then feared there would be more people than space.

Police and the Secret Service assembled a security force of more than 5,000 men. All were briefed and given assignments which ranged from manning aircraft to patrol the parade route from overhead to checking manhole covers.

Horses were trained with Spike Jones records in Rock Creek Park so they would be used to the music, cheers and high-jinks of the crowd.

SECOND MEETING

Today, Kennedy will meet with President Eisenhower for their second talk since the election. This is expected to be strictly business and there has been speculation it will concern foreign policy.

Kennedy had a final fitting in New York for the cutaway coat he will wear for the big event Friday and bought two black silk top hats, one as a reserve for any emergency.

FIND A MINK?

In Washington, hotel rooms, inaugural ball tickets, mink coats to rent all were being sought eagerly, almost desperately, as inauguration day drew near.

Democrats by the thousands descended on the nation's capital. From state capitals, county seats, and cities, they came — millionaires, businessmen, laborers.

BEST SINCE JACKSON

It looked as if it would be the biggest, liveliest and most unforgettable inauguration since Andrew Jackson and his frontiersmen ushered in the age of the common man back in 1828.

Space Shot Rumors Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The presence of a fourth Russian range ship in the north Pacific was reported by the U.S. Navy Tuesday, increasing speculation that the Russians are about to undertake a major space test.

A navy patrol aircraft spotted the ship, the Suchan, 1,000 miles south of the Aleutian island of Attu. It was moving on a southeast course.

The appearance of the Suchan led the navy to guess that the Russian shoot probably will take place this week, possibly about the time President-elect Kennedy is due for inauguration Friday.

All four of the range ships are carrying helicopters that could be used to recover a space capsule.

Cost of Columbia 'Known All Along'

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia has known for some time about the estimated cost of Columbia River power that Premier Bennett now questions, Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday night.

He was commenting on the premier's earlier statement in Victoria that B.C. will proceed immediately with arrangements for building a three-dam storage system the "moment the federal government guarantees this cost figure in writing."

COST FIGURE

This cost figure is 3.77 mills per kilowatt hour—advanced repeatedly by federal cabinet ministers as the cost at Vancouver of American-generated power returned to B.C. under terms of the treaty signed in Washington Tuesday.

Mr. Bennett said he seriously doubts that 3.77 mills is an accurate figure.

If the guarantee is not given work on the Columbia will be held up until the B.C. Energy Board submits a report on the costs later this year, Mr. Bennett said.

The premier also released the text of a letter he wrote Finance Minister Donald Fleming Jan. 13 stating that it would be in the best interests of both federal and provincial finance departments to discuss financing arrangements as soon as possible.

Mr. Fulton said last night: "These figures have been known to the negotiators for some time, including Mr. Bassett (deputy minister E. W. Bassett of B.C.'s lands and forests department)."

BEST ESTIMATES

"These are the best estimates available of the cost of power laid down at Vancouver." (See Peter Bruton's column on Page 17.)

Growing Rail Stoppage Choking Off New York

NEW YORK (UPI)—A growing strike has halted operations on New York City's three big rail carriers, forcing hundreds of thousands of commuters to look for emergency transportation.

The Pennsylvania Railroad and the New Haven Railroad, following the lead of the New York Central, Wednesday ordered all service in and out of New York suspended after trainmen refused to cross picket lines of river tug and ferryboat crews.

New Haven spokesmen said the line's entire New England system was in jeopardy by "flying pickets" of the striking maritime workers.

Motorists driving along Shelbourne Street in Saanich Tuesday will be timed by Saanich police force's new radio timing device. Police Chief W. A. Pearson said last night.

But the only indication they will see will be a large sign, about 500 yards past the "ghost" car, telling them they have just been timed.

And, perhaps, a summons to appear in court.

"So far as I'm concerned, I don't care if the timer doesn't catch anyone," Chief Pearson said last night. "It will do its job if it makes people drive carefully."

NORTH COWICHAN—North Cowichan council yesterday granted $5,000 to the area's flood relief fund and laid out a seven-point program designed to aid last weekend's flood victims and put an end to periodic inundations in the area.

Duncan Aid

Flood Fund Opens

DUNCAN—A trust fund to assist flood victims was started here yesterday to help re-establish residents after ramping rivers and heavy rain last weekend caused an estimated $100,000 damage.

"In many cases this assistance is badly needed and I'm sure residents want to help," said David Williams, president of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, which will handle the money.

He said a conservative estimate of damaged homes is 50 in this district, with more at Lake Cowichan.

The fund will assist residents here and in North Cowichan and Lake Cowichan areas.

Donations to the trust fund can be left at the Colonist office, 30, Kenneth, or in banks and municipal offices in the three areas.

The fund here will be separate from one already started at Lake Cowichan for William Hughes.

Tot Still Serious

Stepmother Faces Charge Of Assault

Charged in Ucluelet by the RCMP with assault causing actual bodily harm to her three-year-old stepdaughter, Mrs. Margaret Hill, 25, yesterday was remanded to appear Jan. 25, in the force's Victoria police court.

When she appears here, before Magistrate A. I. Thomas, it is expected there will be a further remand. The young woman has been released on her own recognizance, without bail being asked.

The child, Leslie Hill, is still in serious condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital suffering concussion. She was rushed here by plane and taxi from Long Beach, where she was living with her father, a logger, her stepmother and a younger brother.

An older sister lives in Victoria with the children's mother, Mrs. Donna Hill. The first Mrs. Hill and husband Bruce were divorced about 18 months ago. The father remarried his present wife about six months ago.

Qualicum Puts In Bid As Lions' Training Camp

QUALICUM BEACH—This east coast of Vancouver Island village has become the second Island community within a few days to announce it is making a strong bid to play host to the B.C. Lions football team training camp.

Earlier Port Alberni indicated it would like the Lions to make their pre-season headquarters on the west coast.

In recent years Lions have trained at Kelowna in the dry, warm, B.C. Interior.

A three-man Qualicum committee headed by Phil Eggersman is reported negotiating with Lions' coach Wayne Robinson.

"We think we have the facilities, and we know we have the climate," Mr. Eggersman told the chamber of commerce.

But football experts disagree and are betting on Kelowna to get the training camp again.

They say the players have tried training in the more humid coast climate and don't like it.

A condition of fog is said to exist if visibility is less than 1,100 yards.

Fish Spawning Channel Undamaged by Flooding

The federal fisheries department's $256,000 Robertson Creek salmon spawning channel, 11 miles from Alberni, apparently came out of Sunday's flooding rainstorms unscathed.

"This flood control is a wonderful thing. The closure gates kept the water down, but another day of rain and we would have been in trouble," said federal fisheries officer Jim Connor.

Robertson Creek is a system of spawning channels, largest of its kind in the world, specially designed for experimental purposes and to introduce a run of pinks to the Somenos River system and increase coho and spring salmon runs in the same system.

Mr. Connor said it is too early yet to assess damage to spawning beds on other rivers and streams in the Alberni area, but undoubtedly thousands of salmon eggs have been washed out.

Cost of Columbia 'Known All Along'

OTTAWA (CP)—British Columbia has known for some time about the estimated cost of Columbia River power that Premier Bennett now questions, Justice Minister Fulton said Wednesday night.

He was commenting on the premier's earlier statement in Victoria that B.C. will proceed immediately with arrangements for building a three-dam storage system the "moment the federal government guarantees this cost figure in writing."

This cost figure is 3.77 mills per kilowatt hour—advanced repeatedly by federal cabinet ministers as the cost at Vancouver of American-generated power retained to B.C. under terms of the treaty signed in Washington Tuesday.
